Chapter 1 by Hannah

Cindy Cinnamon Mackintosh was a small country girl who lived off of Granny Smith Blvd. coincidence right? Well beside the name, Cindy was one of the most popular people in Pear Square. People looked up to her and took her as a role model. But one day that would all change, today. Cindy was in the town riding her blue bike with her dog, Cherry, in the basket up front. She waved to the towns people as she rode across the smooth asphalt when from the corner of her eye spotted a foreclosure sign with Mackintosh written on it. She rushed home in disbelief. She ran threw the fields of her country home and slammed threw the door. She witnessed her family in tears on their apple sofa. She sat and joined in still thinking that this was a dream saying wakeup Cindy, but nothing ever happened.
